

Burger Issues

written by

John Stone

(c)

Jhnstn87@aol.com

All rights reserved (c) 2024

FADE IN:

INT. BURGER BAR - NIGHT

CHUCK SPUNT enters the busy shop and stands in the queue to use one of the three electronic ordering machines.

He stands behind a HOODIE who is unfamiliar with the point of sale system.

The Hoodie is unable to make their purchase and each time is taken back to the menu screen.

Chuck Spunt peers over the Hoodie's shoulder and shakes his head in annoyance.

CHUCK SPUNT

Look, what do you want to order for heaven's sake? I mean, it's not rocket science, is it? You just press your finger on the item you want to purchase and then tap your card on the payment icon. Christ! Did you even go to school?

The Hoodie ignores him and doesn't turn around.

CHUCK SPUNT -

(aside)

Look, if I have to wait much longer I'll die from malnutrition. If you can't work it out why don't you ask for assistance.

He steps in front of the Hoodie and stares at the screen.

CHUCK SPUNT

Right then, what do you want to order - a double whopper with cheese, large fries and a large chocolate milkshake?

HODDIE

Mmmmm.

Chuck Spunt presses the choices, then reaches the payment section.

Without thinking he takes out his credit card and taps it on the screen.

The Hoodie produces a large hairy hand from under his coat and grabs the receipt.

Chuck Spunt turns to face him.

His POV: A GORILLA.

He gasps and jumps back.

HOODIE
Mmmmm, ummmm.

CCUT TO:

THE END