Idea based upon Squid Game

OVER BLACK: The last remaining challengers endure a game of chess against one another. Each player must move a piece within the specified time frame of twenty seconds, or be eliminated. The winner will receive a cheque for 10.000.000 dollars.

SUPER: MONOCHROME.

FADE IN:

INT. MIRRORED AUDITORIUM - LIT

A black and white chequered floor to represent a chess board, and a table with two chairs. A CHESS BOARD set for play with a DUAL CHESS TIMER.

A huge SCREEN situated on the back wall shows a COUNTDOWN CLOCK, set to three minutes.

White haired challenger MARCUS BISHOP 32, from the UNITED STATES wears a long white gown. He takes his seat at the table. He plays as white.

Black haired HENG ROOK 64 from China dons a black gown. He takes his seat opposite his challenger. He plays as black.

A SPOTLIGHT lights up the Chess Board.

A twinkle in the eye of Marcus Bishop suggests his knowledge as the winner of the game.

Heng Rook sweats profusely as his hair hangs over his face. He seems agitated as he realizes he cannot win the game. His hands begin to shake as he panics and fails to move within the time frame.

He looks across the table with a look of despair as his time elapses.

PFF!

A huge hole appears in the chest of Heng Rook as he rocks back and forth in his seat, before he slumps across the blood spattered chess board and knocks over the remaining chess pieces.

Blood spattered Marcus Bishop climbs to his feet and a colorful ticker tape rains down upon him.

He bears a huge grin as he is crowned ultimate winner and handed a check for &10.000.000.

FADE OUT.
